THE
ANGLO-CHINESE CALENDAR
MANUAL.

A Handbook of references for the determination of Chinese Dates, during the period from 1860 to 1869; with comparative Tables of Annual and Mensural Designations, &c., &c. Compiled by WILLIAM FREDER-ICK MAYERS, H.M.C.S.

Author's Preface.
Most persons whose avocations or studies are connected even remotely with Chinese subjects are wont to confess the need of a convenient manual of reference for the purpose of determining dates according to either the European or the Chinese method of computation; and a system of comparison for the names attributed to years, months, and other periods is also frequently a desideratum with translators and readers of Chinese literature. The compiler of the following tables has thought, accordingly, that their publication in a convenient form may prove useful, although much yet remains to be done for the elaboration of comparative calendars, etc. that should leave nothing to be desired. With the exception of the Cyclical Table of Years, and the Table of Solar Terms, both of which were originally compiled by Dr.
Morrison, and afterwards republished with improvements in Williams' Commercial Guide, from which (with some alteration) they are now copied, the whole of the matter assembled in the following pages is for the first time made accessible to general reference.

SHIPPING REPORTS.
Phellia, Br. br., 507 tons, Capt. Simpson, left Sunderland on the 23rd of February, with a S. W. wind, which on inuing kept her in the Downs till the 6th March, when she left with a N. E. wind and carried it to the Equator, crossing on the 31st of March; experienced moderate wind till passing the Cape on the 6th of May in 39 S. On the 12th encountered a gale from the E., which continued all the 17th and had fine weather till the 8th of June, when it began to blow a severe gale from the E. which lasted 24 hours. Sighted Java Head on the 10th June, and on the following day took on board Captain Davis and crew (13) of the Miss Preston, which had been wrecked on the Silowen Point.
Owing to the sudden striking of the vessel under full sail, the mate immediately before having reported 14 fathoms by the lead, they were unable to furnish themselves with provisions or even coals.
When seen they were padding with boards taken from the bottom of the boat. On the 14th landed them at Anjer and supplied them with clothes. Came through Gaspar strait on the 20th, and experienced rough the China sea a light S. W. wind, accompanying with squalls and heavy rains; sighted the Saddle on the 10th of July and arrived on the 13th July at Shanghai.

EXTRACTS FROM REVIEWS.
(from the "Straits Times," July 27, 1868.)
Some time ago we had occasion to remark on the progress that Literature as repromade by the Press had made and was making in the East, and our attention has again been called to the subject by the receipt of a Hongkong publication which deserves some notice and which we have much pleasure in introducing to the knowledge of our readers. We allude to Notes and Queries on China and Japan, published recently by Mr Saint, the proprietor of the China Mail newspaper. This publication well printed on good paper, and in size and shape is very like its well-known name- or prototype at home, and is equally a one containing very curious and useful information regarding the language, literature, history, manners and customs of the Chinese and in a less degree of the Japanese. It says a good deal for the extent and ability of the footing of Europeans in China, that another publication of this uld be established and conducted with parently successful vigour.

The publication is altogether a very interesting one, and wishing it every success, I commend it to the attention and support of our readers.

From the "Friend of India," June 4, 1868.) We acknowledge with thanks the receipt the numbers" for the current year of "Notes and Queries," a most deserving Anglo-Chinese monthly, edited by Mr N. Denny, whose "Treaty Ports of China and Japan" are so well known. From the notes attached to the "Notes" we can see that the contributors include some of the best Chinese scholars in the East. Its interest is not confined to China, and it will be of valuable assistance to all scholars who directed their attention towards the subject of Buddhism and its literature, and generally to all who are interested in oriental antiquities. It deserves to be better known in India.

From the "London Examiner," May 16, 1868.

This really useful volume ["Treaty Ports China and Japan" is intended as a reference for travellers and residents in China Japan; and as a book of reference for gentlemen generally. It contains an account, historical and political, of all the ports of these countries, together with Yokohama, Yedo, Hongkong, and Macao. It has been carefully compiled and edited by N. B. Dennis; and the elaborate maps plans, with which the work is

I have thus given in outline some of the more prominent portions of the chapter devoted to Canton, as a specimen of the whole volume. Other chapters treating of Amoy, Formosa, Ningpo, Shanghai, and the remainder of the treaty ports, we can not enumerate. The pages describing the capital, are also interesting, and so much that it is new to European eyes, and general characteristics, that we do not transfer them to our columns. A complete and intelligible plan of the Imperial City and neighbourhood, gives us an accurate notion of the relative position of divisions, streets, and places; the introductory chapter to the notices of the Treaty Ports of Japan will be found
